ADM Investor Services Expands Commodities Brokerage and Risk Management Services Across Europe

ROLLE, November 5—ADM Investor Services, a subsidiary of ADM (NYSE: ADM), today announced the launch of ADM Investor Services Europe, a European entity established to expand the company's commodities brokerage, execution and risk management services in Europe.

Operating from Amsterdam and regulated by the Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets, ADM Investor Services Europe will support institutional investors, commodity trading and hedging clients with expertise across multiple commodity markets.

The launch marks a strategic expansion of ADM Investor Services' global capabilities into Europe, strengthening its ability to serve clients across key agricultural markets. The entity will provide commodities-focused brokerage and execution services, combining strong market knowledge and experience, access to major global exchanges and dedicated client support to help clients manage risk. Clients will also benefit from electronic execution, the ADM Investor Services client portal Nexus, and strategic relationships with leading exchanges across the value chain.

"The launch of ADM Investor Services Europe reflects our commitment to supporting clients in one of the world's most important commodity regions," said Stuart Jackson, Managing Director of ADM Investor Services International Limited. "As commodity markets become more complex, clients need a partner they can trust. By combining local market expertise with responsive, relationship-led service, we help clients manage risk and make confident decisions in fast-moving markets."

Reflecting its "Strong Roots, Wider Reach" approach, ADM Investor Services Europe draws on the expertise and infrastructure of ADM Investor Services and the broader ADM company, while expanding its presence and support for clients across Europe.

"We are pleased to continue growing our European business and expanding our service offering," said Edwin Burgers, Managing Director of ADM Investor Services Europe. "This launch enhances our ability to deliver tailored execution and risk management solutions to institutional investors and commercial clients across the region. Looking ahead, we see strong growth opportunities in the dairy sector and are expanding our expertise and market coverage to better support clients in this evolving market."
